

Font License Agreement

This legally binding agreement pertains to Font Files purchased from Dirt2.com & SickCapital.com. By purchasing fonts from SickCapital.com, you hereby agree to this legal contract which is subject to change at any time without notice. If such changes occur, the previous agreement remains valid for purchases made before this document's given date. This license is attributed to the purchased font file located in the download containing this copy of the font license. Please read each key point to ensure your satisfaction with your donation and usage for the font file.
Updated May 7th, 2014

License Types

Generic/Default License: The default license allows usage for one computer to use one font on up to 6,000 sold/distributed items. This allows you, the buyer, to have the font installed onto one computer and that one computer may create and sell merchandise (up to 6,000 items total) using the font. Said computer may be located outside of the buyer's place of purchase.

Extended License: An extended license allows unlimited sales for one font on one computer. This allows you, the buyer, to have the font installed onto one computer and that one computer may create and sell merchandise using the font. Said computer may be located outside of the buyer's place of purchase.

Commercial Usage Types

What Is Considered Commercial Usage?

When there are two parties exchanging commercial goods (a product in exchange for money) and the product contains a Dirt2 resource then that resource is being used commercially. This includes using the font to market your goods using a media such as website logos(using the font in a logo to present a business or product would count as a distributed item), business cards, clothing designs (each item of clothing counts as a distributed item, each clothing design file counts as one distributed item), television broadcasts (each view is counted as a distributed item) or printed goods (each print counts as one distributed item) so on and so forth.

What Is Considered Personal Usage?

Personal Usage means you are using the resource in a manner where you are not trying to profit from the item they are being used in. This includes charities, family projects, non-profit organizations, homework assignments.

Native American Tribes Granted Commercial Usage

I allow non-casino owning United States Native American tribes to use my fonts in their commercial products free of charge.

File Redistribution and Resale Is Not Allowed

Commercial Usage does not allow redistribution of font files or sales from font files directly (unless previously discussed), You may not redistribute Dirt2.com fonts for profitable gain and you may not represent Dirt2.com in any commercial decisions or license/file sales.

Download Usage

Feel free to modify the file for your commercial and personal use but do not upload modified font files for the public or onto websites. Starting May 2014 font files from SickCapital.com are time-unlimited which allows you to download the file whenever you would like.

Contact For Further Questions

If you have anything you need to ask then you can contact me at Andrew@Dirt2.com or on Facebook.com/Andrewtwo
